

Quality of Life Assessment

Knowing when to make final choices for your beloved pet is difficult. So many factors play a role that it can be overwhelming to evaluate our pet’s overall well-being. Using this guide may help. By using specific parameters, you can form an impression daily. Then tracking these daily evaluations, you can better see trends that may make it just a little easier to decide what to do. Keep in mind, a negative trend does not always mean euthanasia! Often, we here at Cinder Rock Veterinary Clinic can recommend interventions that can help improve quality of life. Then, when the time comes, we will continue to treat your pet with compassionate care and love.

As you assess your pet, use 😊 for a good day, 😐 for a so-so day, and ☹️ for a not so good day.

If you prefer, you can also use numbers: 2 for a good day, 1 for a so-so day, and 0 for a not so good day.

There are 2 blank columns for parameters specific to your pet.

	Appetite and Water Intake	Ease of Mobility	Ease/Quality of Eliminations	Enjoys Interaction w/Family	Enjoys Favorite Activities			Overall Assessment
Day 1
Day 2
Day 3
Day 4
Day 5
Day 6
Day 7
Day 8
Day 9
Day 10
Day 11
Day 12
Day 13
Day 14

Cinder Rock Veterinary Clinic is here to help. Please don’t hesitate to contact us for help at this tough, emotional time!